INDO-GREEK AND INDO-SCYTHIAN COINAGE

by Dr. Michael Mitchiner

- S14 This is the most important numismatic work ever published in Indo-Greek and Scythian coinage with an unprecedented amount of information. 10,000 photographs illustrate the history of coinage of Afghanistan and Pakistan during the five centuries that elapsed from the coming of Greek culture with Alexander the Great in 330 B.C. to the foundation of the Sassanian Empire in 226 A.D.

Many coins, some previously unrecorded issues, are illustrated for the first time in this easily read text, amplified by maps and tables. This treatise should be of great interest to collectors, historians and archaeologists.

Vol. I The Early Indo-Greeks and Their Antecedents. Alexander the Great, the satraps of Egypt, Babylon, Ecbatana, Bactra and Kapisa; the Seleucids, c. 330-150 B.C.

Vol. II The Apogee of the Indo-Greeks, c. 160-120 B.C.

Vol. III The Decline of the Indo-Greeks, c. 130-0 B.C.

Vol. IV Contemporaries of the Indo-Greeks. Kings of Sogdiana; Scythians of Merv, Choresmia and Balkh; Yueh Chi and early Kushans; Indian states of Taxila-Gandhara and the Punjab: Audumbara, Kuninda, etc. Indo-Greek mints, coin denominations and forgeries.

Vol. V Establishment of the Scythians in Afghanistan and Pakistan. The dynasties of Otannes and Vonones; the conquests of Maues; c. 130-40 B.C.

Vol. VI The Dynasty of Azes, c. 60-0 B.C.

Vol. VII The Decline of the Indo-Scythians. The Satraps Zeionises, Kharahostes, Ruvula, etc.

Contemporaries of the Indo-Scythians. The Yauddheyas, Arjunayanas, various Janapadas, etc.

Vol. VIII The Rise of the Indo-Parthians, c. 0-100 A.D.

Vol. IX The Later Indo-Parthians. The Indo-Parthians of Broach, the Western Satraps, Abhiras and Chutus related Satavahana coinage.

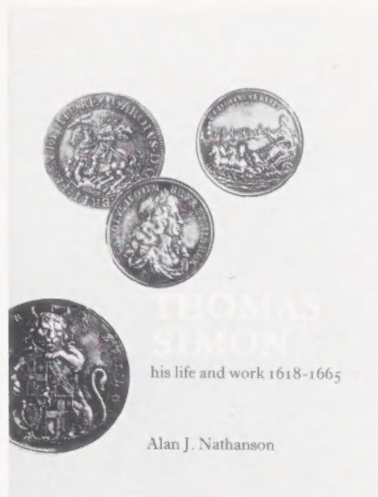

Each volume measures 12 X 8½ inches, with 100-140 pages, 50-65 half-tone plates, 1,000-1,500 photographs, with soft card covers.

ALBERTO BANTI APPOINTS NUMISMATIC FINE ARTS U.S. DISTRIBUTOR

Numismatic Fine Arts proudly announces our appointment as the official U.S. Distributor of the books authored and published by Alberto Banti of Firenze, Italy.

Mr. Banti has produced Corpus Nummorum Romanorum, some of the finest and most scholarly works of recent times on both the Roman Republican and Imperial coinage. Six of the volumes on the Republican series are now available, with additional volumes being completed on Aes Rude et Signatum, Aes Grave, Anonymous Minting and Anonymous Minting with Symbols. These books will include thousands of photographs never before illustrated in other commonly used references.

We are pleased to offer our clients at this time, the six volume sets of Corpus Nummorum Romanorum, Roman Republican Coins and the eighteen volume set of Corpus Nummorum Romanorum, Roman Imperial Coins. In our opinion the contribution of these titles is inestimable to collectors, museums and libraries.

THE PENGUIN BOOKS

READINGS IN ANCIENT HISTORY

We are often asked by our clients to suggest background reading in ancient history. Accordingly we are now making available selected works in English of a number of celebrated classical historians, in low-priced Penguin paperback editions. These titles are certain to increase your knowledge of the specific historical events influencing ancient coinage, as well as enhancing your appreciation of classical civilization in general.

- | | |
|--|------|
| P1. McEvedy, The Penguin Atlas of Ancient History. | 5.95 |
| P2. Finley, ed., The Portable Greek Historians. | 5.95 |
| P3. Gibbon, The Portable Gibbon (The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, condensed). A classic of English prose style and historiography, covering the Constantinian and late Roman periods. | 5.95 |
| P4. Arrian, The Campaigns of Alexander (Anabasis). Second century A.D. history of Alexander the Great, drawing heavily on the lost memoirs of Ptolemy. The only author to treat Alexander factually instead of romantically, and thus our most valuable literary source on Alexander. | 4.95 |
| P5. Caesar, The Conquest of Gaul (De bello gallico). Classic, concise memoirs by Caesar describing and defending his actions in Gaul from 58 to 52 B.C. | 2.95 |
| P6. Herodotus, The Histories. The fifth-century "father of history" included legends and hearsay as well as fact in his writings; his geographical and chronological limits correspond closely to those of numismatic history in the East Greek world — the Lydian Empire, the Persian Empire, the Ionian Revolt, the Persian Wars. | 5.95 |
| P7. Livy, The Early History of Rome (Ab urbe condita, books i-x). Annalistic treatment of Rome's origins and conquest of Italy. | 3.95 |
| P8. Livy, Rome and the Mediterranean (Ab urbe condita, books xxxi-xlv). Annalistic treatment of the Macedonian and Syrian Wars, which expanded Roman influence to Macedon, Greece and Asia Minor. Throws light on such historical giants as Antiochus the Great, Philip V and Perseus of Macedon, Ti. Quinctius Flaminius and Aemilius Paullus. | 5.95 |
| P9. Livy, The War with Hannibal (Ab urbe condita, books xxi-xxx). Annalistic treatment of the Second Punic War, the greatest crisis of the Roman Republic. | 4.95 |
| P10. Plutarch, The Age of Alexander. An essentially literary conception of biography, placing character and moral lessons above factual accuracy or historical perspective. Nevertheless Plutarch more than any other writer shaped the Renaissance and popular modern idea of the great men he wrote about. | 3.95 |
| P11. Plutarch, The Fall of the Roman Republic. Six Roman lives: Marius, Sulla, Crassus, Pompey, Caesar, Cicero. Inspirational. | 3.95 |
| P12. Plutarch, Makers of Rome. Lives of Republican Roman patriots. See P10. | 3.50 |
| P13. Plutarch, The Rise and Fall of Athens. Nine Greek lives. See P10. | 3.50 |
| P14. Sallust, The Jugurthine War and The Conspiracy of Catiline. Generally censorious descriptions of the rise of Marius and the clash of Cicero, Cato and Caesar, illuminating both events and attitudes which contributed to the decline of the Republic. | 3.95 |

- P15. Scriptores Historiae Augustae, Lives of the Later Caesars. Anonymous fifth-century biographies of third-century emperors — often scandalous or semi-legendary, but the only literary source we have for some of the obscure usurpers of this dark century. 3.95
- P16. Suetonius, The Twelve Caesars. Entertaining, spicy and outrageous anecdotes rather than serious historiography, but based upon confidential material in the imperial archives of Hadrian's day. A must. 2.95
- P17. Tacitus, The Annals of Imperial Rome. Annalistic history of Julio-Claudian Rome, 14-68 A.D., focussing on the Principate. Elevated in tone, biased by the author's admiration for Republican institutions, yet strictly accurate in point of fact. 4.95
- P18. Tacitus, The Histories. Covers the Year of the Four Emperors (69 A.D.), with the same virtues and Republican bias as the preceding. 3.50
- P19. Thucydides, The Peloponnesian War. Extremely detailed eye-witness account of the war which ruined Athens and the internal political struggles which influences the war. Careful research combined with vivid dramatizations of leading personalities (Pericles, Alcibiades) make this a literary and historiographical masterpiece. 4.50
- P20. Xenophon. The Persian Expedition (Anabasis). Eye-witness account of the adventures of a band of Greek mercenaries in the Persian Empire at the turn of the fourth century B.C. 4.95

NEW PUBLICATION

Greek Imperial Coins by David R. Sear is one of the most extensive and important projects undertaken by Seaby Publications. This new collectors handbook will describe and evaluate over 6,000 coins, with 1,750 illustrations in approximately 600 pages. By listing the coins in chronological order, as opposed to geographical order in most standard reference works, the collector will find it easier to make attributions in this difficult series.

These coins are listed in the British Museum Greek Catalogue because they represent the final phase of the City Coinages, but they also complement the Roman Imperial coinage to which they are more closely related and this book should be viewed as an extension of Roman Coins And Their Values.

A useful addition to the book will be the section on Contemporary Coinages. In the second volume of Greek Coins And Their Values, the listings of various series were terminated toward the close of the first century B.C. Here the series of Celtic Britain, Thrace, Pontus and Bosphoros, Parthia, Elymais, Commagene, Judaea, Nabataea, the Himyarites, Osrhoene, Characene, Persis and Mauretania will be found listed to their logical conclusion.

It is anticipated that this important new book will be available in June, 1982 for $55.00. Reserve your copy now and receive a one-time only, pre-publication discount of 10%.
